Home hints

WHEELBARROW SUBSTITUTE — Last summer, our wheelbarrow broke, and as I began gardening, I really missed it. The bags of fertilizer were too heavy! I had also used the wheelbarrow for other things that were large or cumbersome.

My husband came up with a brainstorm. Now we use my son's wagon. It comes in handy and serves the same purpose. Diana L. Albany, NY CAMPING TIP — Our family goes camping quite frequently and here is one of our best camping hints.

Washing dishes isn't one of my favorite chores at home and washing them while camping is even worse. So, to make it a little easier, I coat the bottom of all pots and pans with a layer of soap before placing them over the fire. When it comes time to wash them, the black soot is easy to wash off.

Camping is so much fun when simple chores are made easier. Nancy D., Phoenix, AZ COVERED-DISH DINNER — Our church has several covered-dish dinners a month, and I usually take cakes to these functions. If there were cake left over, I wouldn't get my cake pan back for several weeks in some cases.

My husband went to the local hardware store and bought a few 12-inch square floor tiles and brought them home. I covered a tile with aluminum foil, placed the cake on it and covered it with waxed paper.

It made a wonderful cake plate, and if I don't get it back quickly or at all, it doesn't matter. It sure saved me a lot of calling and anxiety since my good pans stay home with me. Helen C., Louisville, Ky

Entertainment Extra by Evelyn

Q. I am curious about Tina Turner. Is it true that she still remains on a close and friendly basis with her ex-husband, Ike? Since I split, it was reported that Tina had been badly abused and had only charge in her entire worldwide and makes her home in Europe. Tina is living in comeback in the making. As for Ike, there is no the story for four years on various charges.

Q. Please settle a bet between myself and a co-worker. Exactly how long have Nancy and Ronald Reagan been married? Opal W.

A. The Reagans recently celebrated their 38th wedding anniversary at Ronnie Chasen's in Los Angeles.

Q. How many husbands has actress Ali MacGraw had, and does she plan on remarrying in the near future? Bertha T.

A. Ali has been married twice, to producer Robert Evans and the late, great actor Steve McQueen. Currently, there are no immediate plans of very handsome younger men. Her current beau is yoga instructor. Rod Stryker, who is younger than the 51-year-old actress.

Q. What year did Bette Davis and actor Gary Merrill divorce? Also, I heard the two remained close even after their divorce. Is this true? Ashley J.

A. Bette and Gary divorced in 1960 and did not speak for over 25 years until 1985. It seems Gary was infuriated over Bette's daughter, B.D. Hyman, and her book "My Mother's Keeper," which trashed Bette. In fact, Merrill stood outside bookstores urging shoppers not to buy the biography. Ms. Merrill perceived B.D. Hyman as a greedy and jealous daughter.

Q. On the recent Oscar telecast, I saw a piece where Bugs Bunny was giving out an award and explaining about animation. Well, my question is, who exactly is doing the voice of Bugs since the famous voice behind the character, Mel Blanc, passed away? Anthony D.

A. Mel's son, Noel, is now behind the voice of Bugs, Daffy Duck and other famous animated characters.

Q. Is it true that Malcolm Forbes was writing an autobiography at the time of his death? Ira H.

A. Malcolm does indeed have a book coming out any day now, but it is not his autobiography. Instead, the book is titled "What Happened to Their Kids?," and the book chronicles the lives of children of the rich and famous throughout history.

Q. I've a homogenous fan of Tracey Ullman, and I'd like to know why we never see much publicity on her. Is it because she's on Fox and everyone outcontinue on the Big Three Networks? If so, I think that's terribly odd something should be done about it. Thank you. Betsy

A. The reason for the relatively low output of publicity is traceable to the super-talented Ms. Ullman herself. She's one of the hardest working women on TV. She's elected to spend most of her off-camera life with her husband and child rather than sit for interviewers. However, she has begun to take more time for publicity chores. For example, there was a major piece on her in the New York Times in March.

Q. About a year ago, I saw a movie on TV called "The Juggler" starring Merlin Olsen. Will it be back on TV any time soon? Thanks. Joe W.

A. I've assured the film will be back. It was well received and as the networks know so well, a show like that is always a good thing to have on tap for holiday viewing.

Q. What's the real truth about Frank Sinatra's health? I understand he's hiding something about it from the public. Naomi

A. Rumors about Sinatra and some secret disability have been with us almost for as long as Sinatra has been a major star. At present, Sinatra's no big health problem to be concerned with, at least according to sources close to him.

Q. Is the Richard Beymer who stars on "Twin Peaks" the same Richard Beymer who was in "West Side Story?" I say yes. My friend says that's impossible. They don't even look alike. Answer, please. Roberta

A. The answer is — yes! They are the same. Remind your friend that "West Side Story" came out in 1961, and people have a tendency to change a lot over 30 years.

Q. Whoa was Elizabeth Ashley married to Marlon Brando? Believe it or not, someone in our family swears that marriage took place, but she can't give us a clue as to when or where it happened, and when it ended. Dave

A. It never happened. Brando once said he used to have a good laugh reading the gossip pages in the morning to find out which beautiful film star was his main movie secret wife.

DEAR DEX
by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:

I'm 54 years old, black, and on disability. My husband is white and 66 years old, also retired. What I want to know from you is we have put in for a senior citizens apartment, and we have been on the list at one place for over three years now. So we went back to the office and asked about the apartment. The lady in the office told us that the papers we filled out were nowhere to be found, and she herself was now at the office. We then had to fill out another application, but when we were leaving, we saw a woman moving in. We asked her how long she had to wait to get in the building. She said she waited two years, three months. If the application were misplaced, as we were told, how did that lady get her apartment? I think this place is against us because of our mixed marriage. We need a place to live to meet our income. I will never be able to hold down a job. My husband had to retire, but he is now working part-time. What can we do?

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE:

I needed some help on this one, so I consulted my esteemed colleague, Matilda Charles, who writes the syndicated column, "Senior Service Line." She advised me that you should call 1-800-792-8820 for help. This number is a senior citizen information and referral office. If they can't help you directly, they can let you know where you can turn. Not only will you be able to get advice about housing, but you should also receive some guidance concerning the discrimination issue.

For the rest of my readers, please put this phone number in your directories. You never know when it might come in handy for yourself or for someone in your family.

Send letters to Dex c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

DEAR DIANE
by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE:

I've been married for eight years now, and I've basically had a good marriage. We have one child together, but in the last six months, we are fighting constantly, and he rarely ever stays home at nights. I've put up with it time to time, but I'm sick of it. I'm getting the best of me now. I don't know which way to turn. I've asked him to go to a marriage counselor, and he has refused. So I went to the marriage counselor, and have been going steadily for three months. So far, neither the counselor nor I have found an answer to the problem. I love my husband in some ways and want the marriage to work for us, and for the sake of our son. I think he's having an affair, and sometimes it doesn't matter to me. At other times, it drives me crazy. I have been advised by friends and family that I should file for divorce and get this crazy situation over with and get on with my life. What would you suggest?

UNCERTAIN

DEAR UNCERTAIN:

I think you're being premature when you speak about divorce. While your husband's behavior certainly is indicative of problems in the marriage, I feel these things can be addressed and straightened out, with time and patience, and a lot of understanding on your part.

First, you have to get your husband to open up to you. Sit him down and let him know you insist upon talking. If he becomes hostile or reticent, lay it on the line. Let him know that this is such a serious matter, you have actually considered filing for divorce. I think this should sufficiently grab his attention and get him to listen to you. Ask him point blank if he wants the marriage to continue. If he does, and I suspect so despite what's going on, tell him he will have to make the effort to go to counseling to discuss what's wrong and how to work it out. Once that's accomplished, I believe you'll be on the right track toward solving this.
